LONDON CONCORD SINGERS

This award-winning choir numbers about 30 singers and gives regular concerts in central London. Our programmes range from the 16th century to the present day, and usually include rarely performed works as well as the more familiar.

Established in 1966 under the musical directorship of Malcolm Cottle - still our current director - the choir has given a number of World, UK or London first performances of works by composers such as John Rutter, Andrzej Panufnik, Richard Rodney Bennett, John McCabe, Kenneth Leighton and Michael Ball.

We have three times won an Award for Choral Enterprise from the Performing Right Society - in 1988, 1989 and 1990 - and won the PRS Jubilee Award in 1977.

As well as our London concerts, we have performed in Yugoslavia, Switzerland and Holland, and elsewhere within the UK.

The choir is affiliated to The City Lit in central London.

We look forward to welcoming you at our 1990/91 series of concerts.
